Messages

from Patron, Mrs Regina LEUNG

In 2013, the Red Ribbon Centre continued to rally public support in the battle against AIDS.

On World AIDS Day (December 1) each year, activities are held worldwide to commemorate people who lost their lives to AIDS and to raise public awareness about the disease. To tie in with this special day, the Centre organised various publicity and educational activities in 2013, as in previous years. These included collaborating with Radio Television Hong Kong again in disseminating AIDS-related messages in its radio programmes and in co-organising the “Safe Journey” drama script writing competition and performance to draw the attention of the public, particularly the youth, to safer sex and AIDS prevention.

Apart from public education, the Centre also organised capacity building activities, including courses, workshops and seminars, to enhance the ability of health and other professionals to deal with AIDS. In addition, the Centre endeavoured to strengthen communication and links with the health authorities in the Mainland and Macao through exchange visits and experience sharing programmes with a view to curbing the spread of AIDS more effectively in the Pearl River Delta Region.

To fight AIDS and help those people living with it, we need to enhance public awareness and eliminate misunderstanding about the disease and prejudice against the infected. I am sure that the Centre will keep up its efforts and work towards the goal set down by UNAIDS of “Getting to Zero”, namely, “zero” new HIV infections, “zero” discrimination and “zero” AIDS-related deaths.

Messages

from Dr. Catherine Sozi, Country Director, UNAIDS China

In 2013 The Hong Kong Red Ribbon Centre continued its important work in support of the response to HIV within Hong Kong and the greater Asia-Pacific region, serving as a key hub for regional cooperation, and the exchange of information and experience.

Responding to the increase in HIV prevalence among men who have sex with men in Hong Kong, the Centre implemented targeted initiatives focusing on strengthening awareness and reducing risk. Working with the organisers of the 2013 Hong Kong Lesbian and Gay Film Festival, the Centre distributed educational materials and condoms to festival participants, and co-produced a film promoting safe sex and early HIV testing.

The Centre continued to support enhanced regional collaboration, holding workshops to strengthen the capacity of mainland Chinese NGOs to conduct HIV response work. The Centre produced and distributed regular bulletins, sharing latest updates from Hong Kong, the region and around the world on science and technology, best practices and community initiatives.

As we move into 2014, the Centre's role in coordinating regional collaboration and experience exchange will become increasingly important. UNAIDS looks forward to continuing to work closely with the Hong Kong Red Ribbon Centre as it continues its innovative and important work in the response to HIV.

Messages

from Dr Richard TAN, Chairman of the Red Ribbon Centre Management Advisory Committee

This is my second year as the Chairman of the Red Ribbon Centre Management Advisory Committee (RRC MAC) and 2013 was a challenging year in our HIV prevention work. The annual figure of newly reported HIV cases has reached a record high of 559 since our surveillance system was started around three decades ago. A major proportion of the new cases was found in men who have sex with men (MSM). To achieve the UNAIDS vision of “ Zero new HIV infections,

Zero discrimination,
Zero AIDS – related deaths. ”

We still have a long way to go and many challenges to surmount.

In the past year, the Red Ribbon Centre (RRC) continued to maintain a close working relationship with experts from China and our local communities through many exchange and sharing activities. The Lions Red Ribbon Fellowship Scheme is one of the many such initiatives undertaken by the RRC. Since 1999, 101 fellows from 28 cities and 3 self-administration regions have been sponsored by the Lions Clubs International District 303 Hong Kong and Macau and completed their studies and researches in Hong Kong. We wish to record our thanks and appreciation to the Lions Clubs International District 303 Hong Kong and Macau for sponsoring the Lions Red Ribbon Fellowship Scheme. I understand that the Lions Clubs in the People’s Republic of China will also participate in sponsoring this project in the future.

During the past year, I was fortunate enough to be invited to some interesting and meaningful events organised by the RRC. The World AIDS Day 2013 “Safe Journey” drama was an excellent example where college students and the communications media can participate in the prevention of HIV by arousing public interest. Their vivid and creative performances were much enjoyed by the audience, myself included. I was also invited to the premiere of “For Love, We Can” which the Centre had started planning and filming since 2013. I was deeply impressed by the talents of our young people, especially by the directing and acting skills of the students of the Hong Kong Academy for Performing Arts, which was anything but amateur. I hope this joint effort by the RRC and the Hong Kong Academy for Performing Arts will become an annual event. I also wish all our young directors and performers a very bright future in their careers.

As a member of the RRC/MAC, I have seen tremendous hard work made by a diligent and innovative HIV Prevention and Health Promotion team to spread the messages of HIV prevention, early testing, early treatment and acceptance of people living with HIV/AIDS. I am also happy to note that the RRC has worked so closely with the MSM community through various innovative channels. It has also reached every sector of our society with its message of HIV/AIDS prevention.

My appreciation and gratitude goes to all the staff of the RRC for their dedication and hard work. It has been my pleasure working with all of them. We have accomplished much in the past year – but still more needs to be done. Together, hand in hand, we shall continue to work till Hong Kong will have “Zero new HIV infections, Zero discrimination and Zero AIDS-related deaths”.

Director's Report

Dr. WONG Ka-hing

Last month I attended a lecture by a UK visiting Professor on HIV clinical update; he remarked that more HIV infections were reported in UK but nobody cares nowadays. Is that true? Does this reflect the current scene generally of the developed countries, in that the society is no longer interested in HIV/AIDS, let alone viewing it as an important issue?

Internationally, in the 2013 UNAIDS global epidemic report, some good news in terms of decreased HIV infections and even greater declining trend in AIDS-related deaths were observed in some developing countries. While better survival of people living with HIV/AIDS worldwide is undoubtedly contributed by the expansion of antiretroviral treatment, the seemingly success in prevention in selected places could be multi-factorial. “Zero New HIV Infections, Zero Discrimination, Zero AIDS-related Deaths” is the aspiration of AIDS workers all over the world, albeit the way is long.

How about the epidemic in Hong Kong? The reported HIV infections hit a record-high for consecutive three years; it was 559 new cases in 2013, an increase of 46 (9%) compared to 2012. Because of a larger base, a smaller percent rise will mean the same significant rise in absolute number of infections. Clearly, the local epidemic is not under good prevention and control. Men who have sex with men infections continued to dominate the situation, and overshadowed other modes of transmission including heterosexual infections. While we are vigilant that injecting drug use can always lead to HIV explosion over a short period of time, it is conceivable that MSM infections will continue to be the single most important mode in the foreseeable future. Hong Kong is facing, similar to most if not yet all of the other regions, an MSM prevention challenge.

The Red Ribbon Centre organised and implemented many activities in 2013, ranging from media campaigns, health promotion programmes to capacity building and networking activities. The World AIDS Campaign featured a premiere of the winning piece drama “Safe Journey” presented by Chu Hoi Drama Club. The RRC organised or participated in the Hong Kong Pride Parade 2013, the 10th AIDS Festival, production of a gay short film (For Love, We Can), display of Caring trees for people living with HIV, cross-border HIV awareness and condom distribution, and roving exhibitions, just to name a few. HIV testing was one main theme of the 2013 programme; RRC collaborated with the Hong Kong Medical Association on a seminar to promote general practitioners to conduct HIV testing, and it ran a workshop to support quality assurance of voluntary testing services by the non-governmental organisations. We believe RRC still plays its role in providing technical support to local communities, as well as organisations and people in the region.

What would be the real change agent for HIV prevention, if there is one? More prevention tools seem to be available in the field given the past years' scientific developments, mostly biomedical measures such as treatment as prevention and pre-exposure prophylaxis; nevertheless, HIV prevention and control is by no means easier than before. Perhaps it is still human nature, human behaviours, community and personal vulnerability as well as protection engineering that matter more.

Back to local, the approval by Legislative Council in late 2013 of the injection of $350 million into AIDS Trust Fund is an encouragement. ATF is the major source of funding for non-governmental organisations that work on HIV prevention and support in Hong Kong. NGOs are in the forefront of the HIV at-risk populations, which work with them day-to-day and know their needs most. Government technical and funding support is indispensable. The at-risk communities themselves also play a crucial role in bettering prevention. Again, concerted efforts of these three (or more) parties have to be strengthened or revitalised if we are to have a winning hand over the epidemic.
